Universiade Edmonton 1983

Last Friday, 18 January, the Board of Directors of the Canadian Interuniversity Athletic Union gave its approval to a bid from The University of Alberta and the City of Edmonton to host the 1983 World Student Games, Universiade 1983.

Having received the Canadian nomination, Edmonton's candidacy will now be considered by the Fédération Internationale du Sport Universitaire (FISU) at its meeting to be held in Moscow during the first week of April. In Moscow our University and City will compete with bids from other countries, for example, Brazil. In the meantime, however, we can think about the benefits which will undoubtedly accrue to our University, city, province and country should our candidature be successful.

The Universiade is second in prestige only to the Olympic Games. Truly international in scope, and not limited by politics or inherited territorial considerations, the games of the Universiade attract student sportsmen and women from almost every country in the world. Those who participate in the games are, in every sense of the word, world-class athletes. To host such an event can only serve to enhance our collective image as a centre for international endeavors.

A description of the magnitude of the undertaking is in order: Should our bid be successful, it is expected that about 3,000 athletes from some 85 countries will participate. (These figures may be compared to the approximately 2,000 athletes from 45 countries who competed in the XI Commonwealth Games in 1978.) The City of Edmonton and our University already possess most of the facilities needed to host Universiade 1983. Moreover, having the experience of staging the most recent Commonwealth Games, we are in a position to know what is needed. In this regard, the Government of Alberta, even before the CIAU meeting last Friday, gave its assurance of substantial financial support.

In physical terms, and financially, the presence of Universiade 1983 can only benefit the citizens of Edmonton. Previous experience, the 1979 Universiade was held in Mexico City, suggests that there will be a very great influx of visitors during the ten-day period of the games; perhaps as many as 240,000 people will be made welcome in Edmonton. Such a large host of visitors can be expected to generate some $127 million in extra business. At the University, the students, participants and residents alike, may well be able to make use of several new facilities—facilities which are needed even should our bid be unsuccessful in Moscow. The proposed fieldhouse will provide space for a wide variety of sports orientated and cultural activities. There will, at last, be more tennis courts. The proposed student housing complex, fashioned with the needs of single students in mind, will be a much needed supplement to accommodation currently available.

The benefits already listed are only the most obvious and, perhaps, are the most dramatic in the short run. But what of the other enduring benefits to the citizens of this city, province and country? In conjunction with Universiade 1983, which will be governed by an organization stressing active community involvement as in 1978, there will be a plethora of cultural events which will reflect the diversity of the nationalities of the participants. In sports and in the arts understanding will grow.

And there is little doubt but that a major stimulus to the growth of such understanding will be the major academic conference the Faculty of Physical Education and Recreation proposes to hold at the time of the games. Also, the games will provide splendid opportunities for researchers in that Faculty and in allied disciplines.

As a University, we are committed already to international understanding and cooperation. So many people visiting our city and University and from so many lands can only help to advance that spirit of internationalism which, clearly evident in 1976 at Montreal, gained momentum here in Edmonton in 1978. Surely this will be the greatest benefit if our bid is accepted in Moscow.

It is proposed that the World Student Games, Universiade, take place in Edmonton from 5 to 15 August 1983. Should the FISU award the games to our University and city, it will be the first time that either Canada or the United States has acted as host country. In future issues of Folio and Folio/New Trail, all being well in Moscow, we shall examine Universiade 1983 in closer detail. □

Comptroller's Office to Change Hands

The employment history of the University from post Second World War days to the present is fraught with names, only one of which has truly been before the University on a regular basis.

That appellation, as anyone who has looked beyond the amount on each monthly paycheque will know, is Murray Rousell. His signature has appeared on each and every cheque since 1 August 1946 when he joined the University as a junior accountant. At the end of June 1980, however, a significant change will be made. The name above the designation "Comptroller" will read A.S. Knowler, not Murray Rousell. Mr. Knowler, Chief Accountant for the University (and another whose signature is very familiar to employees) was recently appointed by Vice-President (Finance and Administration) L.C. Leitch to succeed Mr. Rousell. The latter will remain with the University for another year as a consultant.

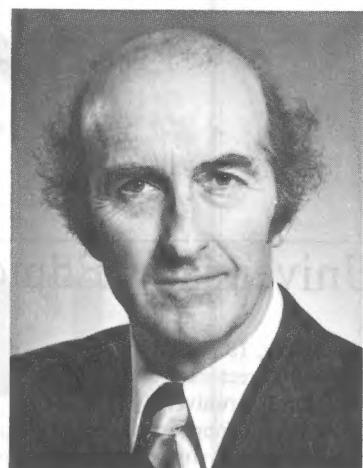

A self-admitted "workaholic," Mr. Rousell says that, while he will miss the University, he is looking forward to easing out from under the burden of responsibility which comes from dealing with annual sums in the millions of dollars and with balancing "the best possible service with the need for control and the necessity of saying no."

During his years with the University, Mr. Rousell has seen the operating grant increase from just under $1 million to well in excess of $100 million. At the time of his initial appointment the University was without vice-presidents, a purchasing agent, and a director of personnel. There was also no General Faculties Council, Academic Staff Association, and Computing Services Department.

Mr. Rousell became the University's first purchasing agent in 1948 and was appointed to the post of accountant later that year. He became Chief Accountant in 1963 and achieved the position of Comptroller on 1 April 1968. His first office was located in the Arts Building; the move to the Administration Building occurred in 1957.

Born in Toronto in 1917, Mr. Rousell moved with his parents to Montreal in 1935. He received a BCom from McGill University in 1939 and secured his first employment in the field of high finance with the Canadian Bank of Commerce. Shortly after earning a CA in 1942 he joined the Royal Canadian Army Pay Corps and was, he believes, the only paymaster to enter Normandy on D-Day.

He may also be one of a limited number of individuals to have served under six University presidents, Robert Newton through to Myer Horowitz. By way of indicating the smallness and remoteness of the University in the 1940s, Mr. Rousell notes that President Newton, while on his way to Europe, stopped off in Montreal, interviewed and later appointed Mr. Rousell to the junior accountancy position.

The two bursars with whom Mr. Rousell maintained a close working relationship were A. West, 1946-47; and J. Whidden, 1948-1968.

In recent years Mr. Rousell has found that budgetary cutbacks have resulted in more work for his office as more controls and analyses have to be planned and set into motion. And there is adherence to long-standing duties such as determination of accounting policy, internal and external financial reporting, supervision and maintenance of the formal financial and accounting records, tax matters, the various insurance programs, custody of current leases and contracts, administration of pension plans and the treasury function of collection, and the disbursement of management and accounting advice and assistance to ancillary and various other departments.

Mr. Rousell also found time to be president of the Canadian Association of University Business Officers in 1970-71.

His successor, Mr. Knowler, is a native Edmontonian who gained his BCom at this University prior to coming on staff in 1954. He has been Chief Accountant since 1968. One of his major accomplishments lay in directing the changeover of the financial accounting system from basic bookkeeping machines to sophisticated computers. This was done in cooperation with the Office of Administrative Systems and senior staff members.

Mr. Knowler believes that the current system places the University in an enviable position in terms of development and maintenance of computerized administrative systems. The role of the computer, he says, is vital if we are to achieve our objectives and carry on with the workload. He is especially proud of the fact that there has never been a failure as regards the ongoing operation of the office and that all payment deadlines have been met. The office handles such sums as $198,000,000 (gross operating funds), $38,000,000 (capital funds), and $30,000,000 (trust monies). It also deals with 2,165 research accounts and about 1,400 trust accounts for other purposes. Needless to say, each penny has to be accounted for to the satisfaction of the donors.

As Comptroller, Mr. Knowler says that the biggest challenge facing him and his staff will be to adapt to an increasingly complex financial environment and to adapt quickly using all resources to the very best advantage. □

Long Service Staff Honored

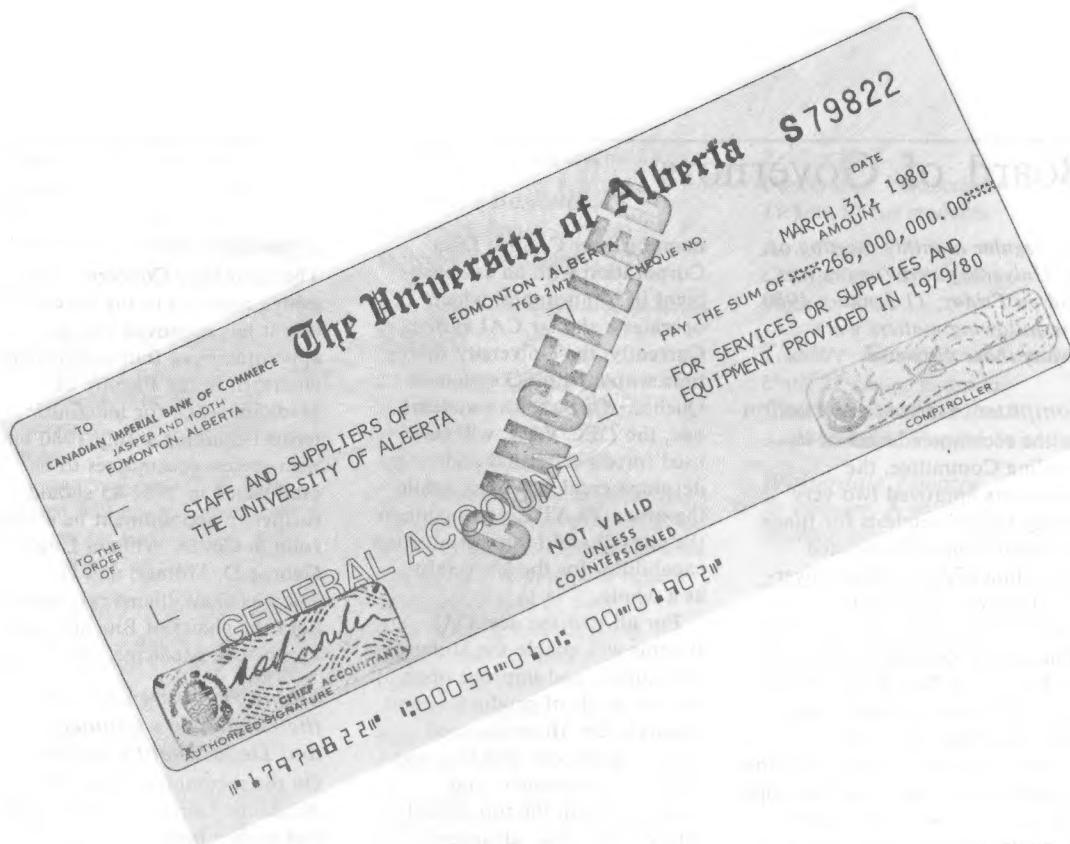

On Monday, 14 January, the Governors of The University of Alberta paid tribute to the devotion and commitment which has been typical of the careers of our more long-serving members of staff. In a ceremony held in the Papaschase Room of The Faculty Club, people who have been employed in non-academic and academic functions at this University for twenty-five or more years, and their guests, received engraved plaques as tokens of the University's appreciation of their dedication. Those who were honored were Mike Bajger, Housing and Food Services; George Ball, Entomology; Bill Carmichael, Bacteriology; Yvonne Goodman, Medical Bacteriology; Helmut Hesemeier, Physical Plant; Lydia Kupfer, Housing and Food Services; Auron Levine, Chemistry; Charles Moore, Romance Languages; Peter Ondrejka, Provincial Laboratory; Theodor Shnitka, Pathology; Joan Shore, Graduate Studies and Research; Gordon Tucker, Physical Plant; Bill Vandervlught, Building Services; Jac Verschuren, Civil Engineering; Harry Wohlfarth, Extension; and Norman Yates, Art and Design.

tions Committee, Norman Lawrence, presenting a plaque to Yvonne E. Goodman. Miss Goodman was first appointed to the staff of the University in 1952. □

Election Campaign Forums

The Department of Political Science hopes that everyone who is interested in the campaign trail will beat a path to the Henry Marshall Tory Building on 1 and 15 February. On those days speakers from the department as well as the Department of Economics will be looking at the leading issues and personalities in the federal election campaign and assessing the prospects of the parties.

Fred Engelmann, Political Science, and Brian Scarfe and Edward Shaffer, Economics, will speak on "The Economy and Energy Policy" at the 1 February forum. Larry Pratt, Political Science, will act as moderator.

"Summing Up the Campaign" is the topic of the 15 February forum. Speakers will be announced later.

Both forums will take place between noon and 1:00 p.m. in TL-11 (Tory Turtle). Time will be reserved for questions and debate from the floor. □

Board of Governors

The regular monthly meeting of the University's Governors was held on Friday, 11 January 1980. The following matters were among those discussed.

Computer Assisted Instruction

On the recommendation of its Building Committee, the Governors approved two very closely related requests for funds to support computer assisted instruction (CAI) at this University. The two requests, for $528,735 from the Division of Educational Research Services of the Faculty of Education and for up to $2.5 million from Computing Services, are made absolutely essential by the decision of International Business Machines Ltd. to withdraw support from the equipment currently in use for CAI, an IBM 1500.

The matter put before the Board on 11 January was most urgent for, according to Dr. Allen, Associate Vice-President (Academic) and Chairman of the Computer Facilities Committee, the IBM support for the current equipment will be withdrawn in April.

Both Dr. Allen and President Horowitz spoke to the motions. Dr. Horowitz reminded Board members that our University had built a world-wide reputation for its innovation in computer assisted learning and instruction during the past eleven years of the IBM 1500's operation. That piece of equipment is now about as obsolete as a "Model T," however, but the renown gained as a leader in CAI, he said, should be maintained and enhanced.

The equipment, whose purchase is to be negotiated with the funds, are for the Educational Research Services division, a DEC VAX CAI system; and, to operate in conjunction with that system, a PLATO CAI system for Computing Services. (Readers may remember that PLATO was installed for a trial period during 1978 in Computing Services. At that time, links were set up between the University and the manufacturer Control Data Corporation with an establishment in Minneapolis, which operates a similar CAI system. Currently, the University shares time with a PLATO system in Quebec.) Of these two systems, one, the DEC VAX, will be used for experimental and developmental functions, while the other, PLATO, will maintain the current and future production capabilities for the University as a whole.

For all that the new CAI systems will enable the University to maintain and improve upon current levels of production and research, Dr. Horowitz took pains to point out that they too will become obsolete, and, perhaps, not in the too distant future. The rapid advances in data processing technology current today make it highly likely that new CAI systems will be required within the next three to five years. It should not be thought, however, that the continual purchase of such sophisticated equipment will place an intolerable burden upon the University, even though the Department of Advanced Education and Manpower rejected a request for the funds to support the present project. It is envisaged that the new system will soon produce revenue; for several educational and governmental institutions are considering the possibility of installing terminals linked to the PLATO system in Computing Services.

Refrigeration Machines

Another rather interesting item was also placed by the Building Committee before the Board—this time for information. The Committee reported that it had awarded a $2.8 million contract to Borg Warner (Canada) Ltd. for the supply of three 3,500 ton refrigeration machines. (Such things are required even during an Albertan winter.) Authorization for the award of a contract was approved at the 4 May 1979 meeting of the Board.

Appointments

The Academic Concerns Committee reported to the Governors that it has approved the re-appointment of four department chairmen in the Faculty of Medicine, each for indefinite terms beginning 1 July 1980 but with review committees to be established in 1984-85 should further re-appointment be sought. John S. Colter, William Dewhurst, George D. Molnar, and H. Thomas G. Williams respectively hold the chairs of Biochemistry, Psychiatry, Medicine, and Surgery.

Statutory Recognition of the Chairmen's Council and Department Chairmen

On the recommendation of the Academic Concerns Committee, and having been supplied with full documentation concerning the search for statutory recognition within The Universities Act by the Chairmen's Council, the Board approved the following motions: a. "That the Board give approval-in-principle to a recommendation of General Faculties Council that The Universities Act be amended so as to make formal provision for departments, department chairmen and a chairmen's council;" and b. "that the formulation of any such amendments then be considered by the University community with such amendments to be re-submitted to the Board for final approval and transmission to the Minister of Advanced Education and Manpower."

(For GFC's latest discussion of this issue, see Folio, 6 December 1979.) □

Canadian Institute of Ukrainian Studies successful in off-campus ventures

The Canadian Institute of Ukrainian Studies (CIUS) is a national coordinating body for courses and programs in Ukrainian studies offered in various departments at Canadian universities across the country. It is not directly involved in teaching and offers no degree programs or courses either at The University of Alberta or on other Canadian campuses. Since 1978, however, it has developed from its offices in Athabasca Hall an active extramural dimension. Two travelling lecture series have been introduced in addition to a number of non-credit adult education courses.

CIUS Travelling Lecture Series

The travelling lecture series are intended to promote the Institute's national profile by means of monthly public lectures offered in a number of Canadian cities. During 1978-79, CIUS academic staff members visited Lethbridge, Calgary, Kelowna, Kamloops, Vancouver, and Victoria. Although attendance at these lectures certainly fluctuated somewhat, it is estimated that about thirty people came to each lecture. Such a favorable response to the first pilot series has prompted the CIUS to retain the western circuit during the current academic year and to expand its offerings to the east.

Thus, over the past seven months, the original series, which was devoted to historical and political topics, travelled to Thunder Bay, Winnipeg, Brandon, Yorkton, Regina, and Saskatoon; while the cities of the western circuit were offered a package of lectures emphasizing topics more closely related to cultural considerations. This culturally oriented series has profited from the participation of experts working in a variety of fields and outside the immediate orbit of the CIUS and The University of Alberta. Again, the 1979-80 offerings have attracted an average audience of some thirty people.

In offering the two lecture series, the CIUS has been greatly helped by, and is equally appreciative of, the cooperation and participation of a wide number of universities, colleges, and members of the Ukrainian-Canadian community. Local contacts in each city have been indispensable in reserving lecture facilities and in the distribution of publicity materials. In this connection, the Department of Slavonic Studies at The University of British Columbia, together with other departments at that institution, has sponsored noon seminars in 1978-79 and 1979-80 which have been directed at a university audience. Moreover, this past year in the east, the Department of Slavic Studies, the Soviet and East European Studies Committee, and St. Andrew's College organized noon seminars at the University of Manitoba for the speakers.

Adult Education Programs

In fall 1978, the CIUS first offered "The Ukrainian Experience in Canada" as an adult evening non-credit course in Edmonton and surrounding centres. This course was designed to introduce the public to selected aspects of Ukrainian and Ukrainian-Canadian history, literature, ethnography, art, politics, and community development. To date, the course has operated successfully in Edmonton, where it was offered in cooperation with our Faculty of Extension and the Edmonton Public School Board. It was also offered in Lamont and in Vegreville (here through Lakeland College). In the fall of 1979, a further course was offered for people in the Red Deer region, through the Red Deer College. This latter course, although advertised widely in the catchment area, was unfortunately cancelled because of a lack of registrants.

In January 1980, the Faculty of Extension, in cooperation with the CIUS and the University's Department of Slavic Languages, has introduced a ten-week course titled "The Icon in Ukrainian and Russian Culture." This series of lectures focusses upon the history, symbolism, and painting techniques of the Byzantine icon.

Future Extramural Plans

Extramural activity is now a permanent feature of the Canadian Institute of Ukrainian Studies. Members of the CIUS fully expect the travelling lecture series to continue, perhaps reaching further into Ontario and points east. Members of the CIUS are equally confident that the course "The Ukrainian Experience in Canada" will continue to attract wide interest and that it will be possible to offer the course in yet more Alberta centres in fall 1980, as well as maintain a presence in the communities previously visited. □

Cansave

For many years members of the English Department have raised funds for the Canadian Save the Children Fund. Since it is mainly people of the University that contribute to our cause, I would be grateful if you would allow me to make our annual Cansave Report through the pages of Folio. We raised from "Hunger Lunch" $352.60; from the book box, from the AV Centre and from Dr. Whitaker's Xmas play $234.00; from sale of Cansave Xmas Cards, conducted by Mrs. Meyers and her gallant crew in the English Department office $1580.00.

The total was $2,166.60

We were pleased to make so much, and Cansave was very pleased to receive this sum with which they can do good and useful things. All of us who work for Cansave are heartened by the generosity of many people at our University.

Faculty Forums

Faculty Forums attempt to provide a context for dialogue between religious faith and academic disciplines. Faculty Forums at The University of Alberta were begun by a group of Christian faculty members, to hear and discuss presentations by University faculty and guests. The Faculty Forums are open to anyone interested in attending.

Three Forums are scheduled for this winter term: "Patient Rights" by Janet Storch, on 31 January at 3:00 p.m. in 14-6 Tory Building, "Missionaries and Anthropologists in the Amazon Basin" by Rod Wilson, on 21 February at 3:00 in 14-6 Tory Building, and "Religion and the Non-Sectarian University" by Myer Horowitz, on 25 March at 6:30 p.m. at The Faculty Club.

Come on EDMONTON Let's CELEBRATE

1980 — the 75th Anniversary of Alberta. In 1905, Alberta proudly became a province in Confederation, with Edmonton as the capital. Now, we're celebrating! Funding has been provided to the City of Edmonton by the Government of Alberta to support our local celebrations.

An Edmonton Anniversary Committee of volunteers has been appointed to review proposed projects and events.

YOU CAN PARTICIPATE Individuals and Organizations — give us your best thinking!

New or improved facilities. Innovative Services. Neighbourhood or city-wide. Big or small. If you or group has a project you can organize, the Anniversary Committee would like to hear from you.

HOW TO TAKE PART

The Edmonton Anniversary Committee needs the following information from all applicants:

1. Name, address, and phone number of organization or individual.
2. Name and phone number of contact person.
3. Full project description (including completion or activity date) and a description of community involvement and benefit.
4. A description of the applicant's expertise with the type of project or activity proposed.
5. A projected budget including all sources of revenue and expenses anticipated and an explanation of the effect of partial funding.
6. If it's a capital project, include a projected annual operating budget for the first five years, and indicate the anticipated source of funds for any projected deficits.
7. A description of the project's relationship to Alberta's 75th Anniversary or the history of Alberta.

LET'S HEAR FROM YOU!

Got an idea? Would members of an organization you belong to have some ideas? Why not get together and discuss ways you can help celebrate Alberta's 75th Anniversary! It's our heritage — and our future.

Come on Edmonton! Let's Celebrate!

All applications should be in writing and all will be acknowledged. Applications must be submitted prior to February 15, 1980 to: City of Edmonton Anniversary Committee 3rd Floor, City Hall Edmonton, Alberta T5J 2R7 Phone 428-5447
